RAID EXONERATED STUDENT TRIAL N IS BEATEN ATTACK WHILE CASE ASLEEP

Jurors Go to Spot in Reading Where Mildred Wamaker Was Brutally Beaten

Frank S. Ramer, aged nineteen, was placed on trial today before Judge Cox in Middlesex Superior Court at Cambridge, on the charge of murderous attack on Miss Mildred Wamaker, a pretty "Wakefield stenographer, while she was on her way to the train just before 8 o'clock on the morning of October 6, 1920.

A jury was impaneled without a challenge. District Attorney Nathan A. Tuttle, who will personally conduct the prosecution, made a spirited opening, describing the brutality of the attack, the only country road where it occurred, and other features which will figure in the State's evidence.

Before calling witnesses, the jury went to view the scene of the attack in Wakefield. They then in Automobile. The jury left the Court House at 11:15.

Miss Wamaker, who is nineteen, suffered a slight fracture of the skull and multiple lacerations of the face. For days she remained unconscious, and then died. She was at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Wamaker, who is now in the St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Boston.

Mandate Islands Fortified

Joseph Timmons of the Los Angeles Examiner staff, whose exploits as a correspondent in France during the war and later in the Orient have made him one of the best-known writers on the Pacific Coast, has just returned from a thorough and most important investigation of the Japanese "invasion" of the Hawaiian Islands.

He makes the startling disclosure that the islands, strategically essential to the defense of our Pacific Coast, are in the latest census Japanese territory rather than American, ruled from Tokyo rather than from Washington, that in this situation lies germs of serious and inevitable controversy, that in the event of war all the islands except Oahu would be taken by Japan almost without a blow.

Oahu, far from being a "Gibraltar," is not prepared to stand a siege. Of the 110,000 Japanese but a handful could be counted on to be loyal to America. The mass is Buddhist and Japanese to the core and from the mass streams an influence potent to aid in the continuation of "peaceful penetration" of the mainland.

Mr. Timmons has an enviable reputation for conservatism and accuracy and his amazing discoveries are certain to arouse national attention. The shadow of Japan lies blackly on the Pacific.

By JOSEPH TIMMONS.

Japan is fortifying the Caroline and Marshall Islands in violation of the terms of the mandate under which she holds them. She is establishing a submarine base in the Marshall Islands and storing there a reserve supply of fuel oil obtained in part from the Shell Oil Company of Martinez, California.

California fuel oil withheld from the American navy by this British corporation and sold to the Japanese navy already to the amount of 150,000 barrels, is stored on the ocean road to the Philippines and ready to drive Japanese.

SCORES ARE SHOT N BATTLES IN ERIN

Death List in Recent Fighting May Reach Fifty When All Cases Are Revealed

By International News Service.

Dublin, March 21.—Twenty-nine persons are known to have been killed in the bloodiest weekend in Ireland since the present "campaign" began.

It is probable that the death list was much higher, since both sides—Sinn Féiners and Crown forces—are concealing their casualties.

It was declared in some quarters today that the deaths may have totaled nearly fifty.

In addition to the dead scores were wounded.

Two military lorries were bombed in this city. Two British soldiers were killed outright and six others were wounded. Three bystanders were wounded. Fighting broke out between Sinn Féiners and British soldiers at Lansdowne, but was quelled by troops.

Civilian was mysteriously shot dead in the heart of Cork.

Numbers of ambulances were reported from many districts throughout southern Ireland.

Sinn Féiners and sympathizers covered many parts of Dublin with placards appealing for "support for the Irish republican army against the foreign invaders."

The police and soldiers were busy for hours loading down the posters.

Mrs. Patricia Doyle, widow of one of the young Sinn Féiners shot to death in the prison last Monday, died early today. She did not recover from the shock of her husband's execution.

RESERVES CALLED TO PROTECT SMITH

Loyal Coalition Founder and 'Wife' followed by Angry Thing to Scollay Sq.

Randolph Welford Smith, former vice-president and founder of the Loyal Coalition, was pursued by jeering and threatening mobs today as he left the Municipal Court building, where he and the woman with whom he was arrested had just been arraigned on statutory charges.

Smith, a "What do you think of the 'Coalition'?" and "Oh, you crack," marked his progress, and that of his woman companion through Scollay square, and police were rushed to the scene to disperse the crowd.

By the time they arrived Smith and the woman had secured a taxi cab and fled from their tormentors.

At the court building, after his and his companion, "Elizabeth, divorced Smith," avoided not guilty and were held in jail until April 4, the former Coalition official charged that "Immoral Love" was at the bottom of his troubles.

He said Lloyd "paid thousands of dollars" to get the woman who described herself as "the real Mrs. Randolph Welford Smith," to come to Boston from Washington and compile against him, and printed list in two columns on Page 2, Column 2.

LA FOLLETTE'S SAYS HAPGOOD

Declares Senator Will Fail in Attempt to Keep Each Off Commission

By NORMAN HAPGOOD, Staff Correspondent of Boston American

Washington, March 21.—The fight of Senator La Follette to prevent the creation of a committee of the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate the operations of the railroads will be a losing battle, says Norman Hapgood, a prominent liberal.

It would be absurd to expect radicals, or even advanced liberals, to be appointed to office by the present administration, if it were possible to do so.

What ought to be hoped is that on the whole the men appointed to important positions should be able and honest, with the kind of conservatism that will not compromise with principles which are in a constant state of flux.

Each Committee Act One Grand Fiasco

Mr. Each has naturally been attacked a little because his name is on the Anti-Comunist act. That law is one grand fiasco. It was passed to suit the railroads and the roads are now waiting bitterly and waiting something more powerful in the way of a crash.

It was passed against the energetic people of labor, and labor naturally is aggrieved at everybody who helped to pass it. As far as can be discovered by a reasonable search, it was not a friend in this broad land.

McAdoo Has Called R. R. Law a Crime

I do not expect to startle anybody when I say that in their hearts both Mr. Each and Senator Cummins know the act is a bad law.

De You Remember Way Back When

Stony Brook burnt its barriers and flooded the whole district around Cabot street and Madison square, Boston, and the boys from the Highlands section went down and sailed around on improvised rafts.

Home runs and a single in one game on the old Congress street grounds? —BLAICHETTE.

La Follette Not Apt to Compromise

Senator La Follette is an indefatigable fighter for his leading progressive measures. High among which is Government control of the railroads, and this is a matter of life, such as transportation, and his is not a nature that will compromise or deal with the opposition.

As the two men come from the same State, the Senator has a powerful antislavery club that he can swing if he chooses to swing it. But I scarcely expect to see it come off its resting place.

For the ordinary man it may seem to be a right of a Senator to be disinterested in the President by forbidding the appointment to Federal office of any man for whom he provided he bears personal ill-will toward that man. General political bias is not enough.

RIFLED SAFE FOUND IN CHASE

Two Men Held in Connection With Bold Gem Robbery in Lynn

Chase police are scouring the community searching for the men who so recently drove a heavy truck to the store run by Louis Cantor early today and carried off a small safe containing $1,000 in diamonds and $500 in cash.

Two men have been arrested in connection with the crime, and the empty safe, its door blown or ripped off, has been found in the left of a barn on Blenheim street, Chelsea.

After leaving the store with the safe, the truck proceeded to Broadway street, where it was stopped by the Chase police. The men on the truck were taken to the station and the contents of the safe and its contents in a wagon drawn by a white horse and driver.

Harry Rudman, Ferry street, Malden, driver and owner of the truck, was arrested first. Later James Franklin, Jefferson street, Chelsea, was taken into custody.

Rudman told the Chelsea police that he had been hired by four men to take a safe away from the store. When he became suspicious he decided to be rescued by police and forced to carry out his commitment.

According to the Chelsea police, Franklin is well known to them.

"I'll tame the witch!" growled Hawes, but, under Peggie's hand, a huge cloud of smoke boiled up and enveloped them. "Do we have magic in the twentieth century?" For six years a girl on a desert isle has been shipping gold from the South Seas. Yet experts, combing the island, have never come on a grain of precious metal. Where does it come from? How is it made? Can Peggie Fossdick still guard her magic secret of Hollister Island?

NEW NEWS ON WHITE PLAGUE

By DR. DONALD B. ARMSTRONG, M. D., M. A., M. R. S.

There are many Frenchmen, Community Health and Tuberculosis Association, Philadelphia; Assistant Secretary, National Tuberculosis Association, New York City; Member of Executive Committee, Massachusetts Tuberculosis Association, Boston, Mass.; Executive Officer, National Health Council, Washington and New York.

The coming of tuberculosis is not only a medical problem, but a social and community problem, and fundamentally a personal problem, and here lies the importance of the new book by Dr. Edward O. Gila. Written in a style which brings the subject within the comprehension of the lay reader as well as the student or practitioner of medicine, it constitutes a genuine contribution to the popular understanding of the disease and of control of the great white plague.

Tuberculosis, which no longer is a disease of preventable death, at least 15,000 people die yearly from this cause alone in the United States, and one or two million are annually incapacitated. It is the most widespread of all diseases, and at least has a latent tuberculosis in one out of every five people.

Of proper living if this infection is to be kept in check and prevented from breaking out into active and serious, often fatal, disease in individual cases. Dr. Gila opens the volume with an interesting study of the anatomy and physiology of the chest and the mechanism of the spread of most fatal tuberculosis. An historical background follows, the development of scientific knowledge of the disease and the early opinions of physicians, the Greek physician (460-370 B. C.), and brings the truly fascinating story down to the modern contributors to the problem of tuberculosis control.

FRAMINGHAM TESTS

Of course it is recognized now that a great deal of the work has been done on the "dam" since Koch's opium-making announcement. With the discovery of the bacillus, many of the medical leaders felt that the immediate control of tuberculosis was at hand.

However, it is now recognized as only one of the many "causes" of tuberculosis. The only cause of tuberculosis infection—but infection is not disease. Early infection, in childhood or infancy, is of course extremely common. In Framingham, Massachusetts, a demonstration, for instance, a careful study of the children of five hundred families of thirty years of age indicated that already 33 per cent. of this group had been infected with tuberculosis. A few of these children are even going to have active tuberculosis in the future.

Among the most serious secondary vital factors instrumental in transforming latent infection into active disease, fully discussed or only briefly referred to by Dr. Gila in later chapters, may be mentioned: overwork, physical stress, mental strain, bad economic conditions, undernourishment, poor food habits, susceptible race stock, unsanitary surroundings, crowded conditions, and so on. Taken collectively, these exciting causes of active tuberculosis make the tubercle bacillus appear almost in the light of an incidental, yet indeed essential cause.

The sections on Pathology (chronic and acute changes) and Diagnosis are of particular interest to physicians and students. So, too, are the chapters on Treatment, though here again Dr. Gila comes in a special and semi-popular manner the essentials of successful treatment, such as rest, outdoor life, fresh air, proper food, controllable exercise, hygienic conditions, and so on. Taken collectively, these exciting causes of active tuberculosis make the tubercle bacillus appear almost in the light of an incidental, yet indeed essential cause.

Marriage is a duel to the death which no man of honour should decline. CHESTERTON: "MAN-ALIVE."

WANTS U. S. TO JOIN BRITAIN

Nearly every American who goes to Europe nowadays is shocked and pained by the ravages which the war has made, not alone upon the land, but upon European civilization as a whole.

Most of these travelers fall into two classes as to what Americans should do about it. One class wants to help the struggling bankrupt nations up out of the water of debts and hates and shattered hopes. The other class wants to build a wall around America and let the rest of the world alone in its own ruin.

WALL AROUND AMERICA

Alfred R. Sellsinger in his "Invincible Europe," just published by H. L. Liveright, is in the first class. He calls for the use of the world in the struggle against the water of debts and hates and shattered hopes.

He heartily sympathizes with the American people, and he is not blind to the fact that this constitutes a serious barrier to the unity between the United States and Europe. He calls for the use of the world in the struggle against the water of debts and hates and shattered hopes.

GRAPHICALLY WRITTEN

deal with the conditions he found in the various countries are graphically and convincingly written. His descriptions are unbiased and dispassionate, and he is a student of the nations that suffered in the war.

SUFFRAGE LEADERS PLAN NEW WOMAN'S JOURNAL

Washington, March 21.—With the official organ of the National Woman's Press, which played an important part in the recent suffrage campaign, organization leaders are planning publication of a general magazine. This magazine will "offer a medium for the expression of the views of women not supplied by any present publication controlled, owned, or edited by the suffrage women's magazines," according to the announcement.

AROMANCE OF HUMAN EMOTIONS

"Don't be too analytical," a wise man once said to a young woman. "You must feel the thing you analyze; leave that to the laboratory; don't tamper with life."

Perhaps it was analysis that spoiled the romance of that first love and that first marriage, whose letters, in consultation with letters from Jane's diary, make up the text of "The Pipes of Yesterday." The authors are Frederic Arnold Runner and Mary Christie, and the book is published by The Century Company.

ANDREW'S GOING TO ASIA AGAIN

The Chapman Andrew, leader of the Third Asiatic Expedition just sent out by the American Museum of Natural History, sails from San Francisco for the Orient. He expects to remain with the expedition for a year or more, and will then return to America to report the results obtained up to that point. He will then leave the expedition. Andrew's interest lies in the study of the human race, and his assistants in the discovery of the origin of the human race, which are believed to be hidden there. Mr. Andrew's report of the last Asiatic expedition is contained in his recent book, "Across Mongolian Plains."

Perhaps it was analysis that spoiled the romance of that first love and that first marriage, whose letters, in consultation with letters from Jane's diary, make up the text of "The Pipes of Yesterday." ## HUB POLICE STRIKE IS THEME

"A man whose paid duty is to guard a public safety of property has the right to have the post under any circumstances whatever." This is the question proposed in "The Struggle of the People's Labor Union," by John Pratt Whitman. (Four Mass. Company.)

To a perfect the author gives credit to the Boston police strike for the theme. He declares any intention to take sides, but there are several strikes that indicate which was the side of favor blows. Here is one of them from the present.

"In Boston there are many who, like human tigers, believe the difference between capital and labor. From coast to coast there is a reaction against the police strike."

"An event," he continues, "could have been staged—if it were staged—between capital and labor. From coast to coast there is a reaction against the police strike."

LEAVES OF GRASS

One hundred and forty dollars was the price paid recently for a copy of Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass," first issue of the first edition (1855), at a recent auction sale of the Charles R. Smith collection in New York. The other book, first edition of Whitman's poems, twenty-four volumes in original bindings, brought the incredible price of $150.

The coming of tuberculosis is not only a medical problem, but a social and community problem, and fundamentally a personal problem, and here lies the importance of the new book by Dr. Edward O. Gila. ## IF A GODMOTHER IN PARIS PLAY

Only a Frenchman could have written the comment on a new play recently produced in Paris, entitled "If a Godmother." It is a comedy, a play that makes you smile with laughter. The play is a comedy by Paul Monod, produced on the stage of the Theatre de la Renaissance.

The coming of tuberculosis is not only a medical problem, but a social and community problem, and fundamentally a personal problem, and here lies the importance of the new book by Dr. Edward O. Gila. Written in a style which brings the subject within the comprehension of the lay reader as well as the student or practitioner of medicine, it constitutes a genuine contribution to the popular understanding of the disease and of control of the great white plague.

Do You Know a Baby Sick With Constipation

Syrup Pepsin.

NO thoughtful mother with children in the house will risk being without a good, reliable laxative. It will save many a serious illness, many a doctor's visit.

When the baby cries and is fretful, when the boy has no appetite and won't play, when the girl is listless and over-awful, when there are complaints of headaches and colds, the mother can suspect constipation. Give Dr. Cassell's well's Syrup Pepsin in the small dose

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a popular compound of Epsom Salts and other simple laxative herbs with pepper and pleasant-tasting aromatics. It acts gently and mildly, and children take it without objection. A sixty-cent bottle is enough to last an entire family for many months. The ingredients are endorsed in the U. S. Pharmacopoeia, and last year's American Dispensary sold over eight million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is recognized as the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, and few countries are without it.

DEAD INDIAN'S FRIENDS HINT AT MURDER

Demand for Inquiry in Death of Billy Nichols, Found With Skull Crushed

Wastport, Me., March 21.—Was Billy Nichols, Indian guide and hero of three years' desperate fighting in the ranks of the Canadian contingent in France, murdered for his money and left dead on a railroad right of way near the Indian reservation at Wastport? Nichols' friends, and there are some of them in this section of the State, insist that he was murdered and are bringing all possible pressure to bear upon the State and county and Federal officials in an effort to have the circumstances surrounding his mysterious death thoroughly investigated.

INQUIRY TO BE STARTED.

For a time the authorities held off, but the trend of public opinion, now aroused, and the discovery of additional facts, makes it probable that an inquiry will be started soon. The story of Billy Nichols reads with romance and adventure. To be a guide with him is one of the old line of Passamaquoddy chieftains who have been famous as a dead end, as a scout and as a guide. His body was found lying on the tracks near the Indian reservation, in which place he had been waiting for transport when killed.

TRAIN THEORY SUGGESTED.

At first it was thought he had been run down by a train, but further investigation by his friends indicates that this is, to say the least, decidedly improbable. He had left Wastport after making a number of purchases, with a large roll of bills in his possession. It is believed he had several hundred dollars with him when he died. When his body was found the money was gone.

Inquiry also showed that Nichols had been perfectly sober when he left Wastport to walk home. Among his other purchases on the night of his death was a pair of lumbermen's rubbers. These and the boots he been wearing also had vanished when the body was discovered.

HIS SKULL PRACTURED.

The body was found lying across the track, the skull crushed in. Nichols was most popular in this vicinity. Children and women were fond of him for his gentleness and politeness.

Men hereabouts also were glad of an opportunity to hear him tell of his adventures while in the ranks of the Canadian forces. He spoke excellent English, and talked well and fluently. He was wounded three times, once at the first battle of Trepas, and again at Vinny Ridge. He was twice decorated for bravery in action by the British government.

BURGLAR ROBBS 1 SUITE.

BUT FLEES FROM SECOND

After entering and robbing the home of Moses Connelley, on the top floor of the three-story tenement at No. 7 Orchard street, Braintree, taking $2 from Connelley's treasury, a burglar descended to the second floor and proceeded to ransack the home of Charles A. Eolas. The latter was awakened by the burglar's movements and sprang from his bed, but the intruder shut the bedroom door locked it, and escaped from the building.

FITZ PLEADS FOR NEW ENGLAND SHIPPING

Ex-Mayor Speaks at Communion Breakfast of Salem Knights of Columbus

Former Mayor John P. Fitzgerald, speaking at the communion breakfast of the Knights of Columbus, Salem, made a strong plea to the young men of New England to "wake up" and save New England's shipping interests, he said in part:

"All New England's shipping will go to the nations unless the young men wake up. New England's future is on the sea and the young men must show the spirit of the sailors of generations ago, who hardly of age, yet built and manned vessels that carried merchandise into every corner of the world. It was money thus made that was the foundation of our railroads and factories and built up the New England of the past fifty years."

"This period was one of internal development and the home market largely took care of New England products. This is true no longer. The West has developed such manufacturing centers as Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis, while the South has built up Baltimore, Charleston, Savannah, Birmingham, New Orleans and Galveston, all of which have tremendous industrial and commercial centers over New England's principal cities."

"There are wonderful opportunities for the right fellow in New England today and when he plugs for himself, he is helping the oldest and best beloved section of the country."

"Let us carry on educationally, industrially, commercially in character building as our boys did in the world war. With such a spirit as glowing as New England's years in the future will reflect worthily the story of the past."

LEON KANSAS BATTLE FOR RIGHT TO MEET LEONARD

DO NOT AND Indoor Sports

Lightweights Clash in Big Charity Show

New York, March 21.—The question as to the pugilistic calibre of Rocky Kansas and his qualifications for a match with the champion of the class will be settled tonight at the conclusion of a bout between the Buffon and Willie Jackson at Madison Square Garden.

Although Kansas and Jackson have had two meetings in the ring, neither has decided advantage, but the Buffon boy thinks he has improved sufficiently in recent months to remove Kansas from the pathway to the title. Kansas points to his two defeats of Willie Leonard in a championship bout as evidence of his power and his belief that he will be the next opponent of Leonard in a championship bout.

Kansas is a native of Kansas and has with him a large following of patrons of boxing, and no doubt entertained the hope of a championship bout with Leonard. He will know to the full the importance of the bout, and he is determined to win it. ## New York Expert Says Wilson Won Fairly

The boxing editor of the New York Times today made the following comment on the recent Wilson/Dowd bout:

Johnny Wilson may not be the greatest middleweight the world has ever seen, but he proved fairly conclusively at Madison Square Garden on last Thursday night that he is the master of Mike Dowd, former champion. Until they met in their fifteen-round championship bout there had been some doubt as to whether Wilson was superior to Dowd. The latter, following the loss of his title in Boston about a year ago, claimed that the verdict of the referee had been correct. And there were some who were inclined to believe his contention. But all doubt was dispelled when Wilson gave him quite an artistic trouncing in their return encounter.

Some there are who claim that, O'Dowd should have been given the verdict because he forced the fighting throughout. They are prone to overlook the fact, however, that Wilson was fighting just the sort of battle that would beat O'Dowd. He let the Irishman come to him and then jabbed him with his extended right hand or ripped his left into O'Dowd's body. If O'Dowd had not done the forcing there is the likelihood that Wilson would have fought differently. He might have been more aggressive, but since O'Dowd kept continually crowding him there was no good reason why Wilson should have fought any differently than he did.

It has also been claimed that Wilson was guilty of fouling his opponent. It may be that the champion struck O'Dowd low on one or twice, but certainly it is not the blows were not intentional. When a man is continually fighting for his opponent's body, as was Wilson, there is grave danger that some of the blows may land a little low, due to the changing position of his adversary, but to believe that Wilson was intentionally fouling O'Dowd is absurd on the face of it. He could have lost his title just as easily via a foul blow as he could have had been knocked out or outpointed.

All doubt seems to have been dispelled as to Wilson's right to the title, but certainly it is not a case with one of those who have held the crown cannot be disputed. He does not compare with Stanley Ketchel or Bob Fitzsimmons.

SPORT EDITORIAL

The Family of J. Dempsey

Long and loud have been the arguments as to Jack Dempsey's nationality and ancestry. "Is Dempsey his real name?" is a familiar question to sport editors. "Is it Shinsky, or what?"

Come now, through new channels, some uncolored testimony bearing out the heavyweight champion's claim that he is Dempsey.

William Dempsey, the twelfth tentative juror selected in the trial of the twenty-one mountaineers charged with the killing of Albert O. Felt in the famous Malesian battle in West Virginia last May, testified that he is a second cousin to the champion.

Furthermore, it was stated in the news item that the Dempsey family are pioneers in the section of the country where the case was being tried.

Dempsey always said his father came from West Virginia, where Dempsey himself worked as a miner for a time. Dempsey's mother was named Smoot.

Thus a palpitating question seems to be settled. Dempsey is Dempsey, which is even more than the original Jack Dempsey was, his name being something else.
